Welcome to Hong Kong

Explore Hong Kong

The geographical position of Hong Kong, a vibrant world city situated in the Greater Bay Area on the coast of southern China, has made it a gateway between East and West, turning it into one of the world's most cosmopolitan metropolises.

Bi-literacy and tri-lingualism thrive in Hong Kong. Although the majority of the population speaks Chinese as a first language, walking the streets you will hear a medley of Asian and European languages. English is widely spoken, and remains the preferred language of the government, business and tourism sectors. All official signs and public transport announcements, and most menus, are bilingual.

Hong Kong combines a unique East-West heritage with contemporary cosmopolitan living. This thriving metropolis of more than seven million people provides exchange students with a host of eye-opening encounters - from colourful traditional Chinese festivals to the latest business developments in one of the world's major global financial centres.

Internationalisation at Lingnan

Students

Diversity

Our aim at Lingnan is to develop a richly diverse on-campus student community. Every year, we have more than 500 degree-seeking and incoming exchange students from all over the world, who together make up around 20% of our undergraduate student population.

Population

Lingnan is the smallest government-funded university in Hong Kong in terms of student population, and Lingnan students thus enjoy the advantages of a small class size and high teacher-student ratio.

Staff

Ninety-nine per cent of Lingnan's professoriate staff are with PhD or doctorate qualifications. In addition to pursuing high-quality research, they place special emphasis on students' learning and personal development. Our approach encourages high standards of research amongst our faculty, as we firmly believe that cutting-edge knowledge nourishes outstanding teaching and inspires those exposed to it. We also regularly invite visiting scholars from mainland China and overseas institutions to enrich our teaching and research components.

Course and curriculum

As a liberal arts university, Lingnan is fully committed to quality teaching. With the aim of building knowledge across disciplines, our credit-based system allows students to choose from humanities, social sciences, business and science courses. Interactive teaching and learning create opportunities for students to analyse and critically review materials, whilst independent research abilities are also of key importance. Internships, overseas field trips, immersion language studies and co-operative learning offer further insights to students and encourage the exploration of new perspectives.

International recognition

Our business degree programmes are accredited by AACSB International. The introduction of regional, international and intercultural elements have further enriched our curriculum.

Language learning opportunities

Lingnan fosters both Chinese and English, the two official languages of Hong Kong, although English is the University's medium of instruction (except for some classes inevitably have to be taught in Chinese).

Through the Centre for English and Additional Languages, students can work on their English capabilities to enhance their studies. Courses in other languages, including French, Japanese, Korean and Spanish, are also available.

At the Chinese Language Education and Assessment Centre, student can enrol in Putonghua classes. The centre's instructors are experienced in teaching Putonghua to international students, and Putonghua courses at different levels are available to exchange students.

Infrastructure

Lingnan offers a warm and friendly atmosphere that helps exchange students settle in easily. Most Lingnan students live on campus, and every international student is allocated a room with a local student to enhance understanding of Hong Kong and boost cross-cultural awareness.

Our award-winning campus, located in Tuen Mun, boasts a wide range of facilities and services, including:

- > Library with late-night access
- > Chinese and Western food outlets
- > Olympic-sized swimming pool
- > Sports complex and outdoor sports ground
- > Courtyard gardens and pavilions

Neighbouring areas offer additional services, shopping and entertainment.

The Lingnan lifestyle

Our liberal arts philosophy means that we pay special attention to campus life at Lingnan. We are the only university in Hong Kong providing 4-year full residency for non-local undergraduates. Many activities revolve around hostel life, including sports, cultural and academic pursuits, which helps students to build friendships. Exchange students also experience this lifestyle by sharing a hostel room with a local roommate.

A peer mentoring programme is available to help both local and international degree students adjust to university life, and our Buddies Scheme assists exchange students in settling in at Lingnan.

Community insight

Understanding more about the different people who make up society is a central part of Lingnan's diverse learning experience. Under the umbrella of 'Education for Service', our students participate in a variety of community projects to encourage an all-round socially orientated vision. Such work allows students to meet people from a range of backgrounds, builds organisational and communication capabilities and encourages a culture of care for others.

Lingnan was also the first higher education institution in Hong Kong to offer service-learning programmes. Faculty members work with partners to design programmes that combine service, research and leadership skills, thereby providing a distinctive pathway to student development.

Lingnan aims to excel as a globally recognised liberal arts university. Central to the University's international profile are its rich and diverse culture and its consciousness of the need to enhance its international character and perspectives.

The interconnecting priorities for our internationalisation activities are to foster our international network, expand our students' international horizons, actively integrate local and non-local students into our campus, attract more quality non-local students to pursue undergraduate studies at Lingnan and facilitate faculty members' interaction with international universities and institutions. As a liberal arts university that emphasises its students' whole-person development, we are working to differentiate the Lingnan student experience as engaging, motivating and globally oriented. Our flourishing interdisciplinary programmes specifically nurture students to develop a forward-looking global vision in various disciplines. Moreover, we strive to pursue excellence and enhance our quality of teaching, learning and research by fostering strategic partnerships with members of the Alliance of Asian Liberal Arts Universities (AALAU) and the Global Liberal Arts Alliance (GLAA).

We operate in an international context and this must be reflected in all areas of our University life, from our students and faculty members to our curriculum and extra-curricular activities, as well as our collaborations that transcend national boundaries.
