REPUBLIC OF RWANDA

MINISTRY OF EDUCATION
P.O. BOX 622 KIGALI

Post of Vice Chancellor for the new University of Rwanda

Expression of interest is sought from senior academics with substantial administrative experience in an established University for the position of the Vice Chancellor for new University of Rwanda.

As Rwanda's economy has grown at an average of 7.4% over the past 10 years, the number of higher education students, standing at 2,500 just 19 years ago, has risen to 76,000 today. Half of these are in the publicly funded higher learning institutions. Now the government is in the process of establishing a single new University which will be a merger of the seven existing higher learning institutions. It will be composed of six Colleges.

The overarching aim of establishing the University of Rwanda is to transform the public higher education system, to improve the quality and efficiency of teaching, learning and research, and in the process, to create a world-class university.

The goals and objectives set out in the national plan are to increase access, promote equity, and ensure institutional diversity while promoting high-level research capacity. Quality higher education is essential to provide support for Rwanda's economic transformation, and to attract and retain top quality personnel.

Further information can be obtained from the website of Ministry of Education on www.mineduc.gov.rw The expression of interest including a covering letter and CV should be submitted to Ms. Sharon Haba, the Permanent Secretary of the Ministry on shaba@mineduc.gov.rw with a copy to Professor Sir David King, the Chairperson of the Search Committee, on dk@camkas.co.uk The closing date for expression of interest is 15th July 2013.

Clare College, Cambridge

Master

The College is seeking to appoint a Master to take up office on October 1st 2014. The appointment will be for a fixed term, not exceeding ten years, the exact length to be determined by agreement between the candidate and the electors.

Clare College, the second oldest foundation (1326) in the University of Cambridge, is centrally situated, with its main buildings lying on either side of the river Cam.

Clare is a forward-looking College, with a tradition of academic achievement and a strong reputation for innovation and for the supportive, friendly nature of its community. It was the first Cambridge College to admit students alongside Fellows (in the fourteenth century), it was one of the first three Men's Colleges to admit women (in 1972), and for many years it has had student representatives with full voting rights on all major College committees. The College has a firm commitment to ensure the diversity of its undergraduate community and places high priority on its access and outreach activities.

The Master is involved in all aspects of College life and takes the chair at all important meetings, but is not expected to take part in the day-to-day running of the College. He or she will have an important role to play in the fund-raising activities of the College and will be expected to spend at least 20% of his or her time on development and alumni activities in the UK and abroad.

The further particulars, stipend arrangements and other benefits attaching to the Mastership can be found on the College website www.clare.cam.ac.uk

The closing date for applications is July 31 2013.

NORTHERN IRELAND CENTRE FOR FOOD AND HEALTH

Professor of Human Nutrition/Reader in Human Nutrition Lecturers in Human Nutrition (2 posts)

Ref: 1345667/E

Ref: 1345670/E

Biomedical Sciences research at Ulster has a national and international reputation achieving top scores in the last three UK-wide Research Assessment Exercises. Research in human nutrition is undertaken through the Northern Ireland Centre for Food and Health (NICHE). NICHE performs fundamental research in nutrition to investigate the relationship between diet and chronic disease in areas such as obesity, cancer, heart disease and osteoporosis. NICHE is one of the largest nutrition research groups in the UK and on the island of Ireland. An important aspect of the work of NICHE is the development and validation of biomarkers for chronic disease to facilitate dietary intervention studies in healthy subjects at risk of disease. The state-of-the-art Human Intervention Studies Unit, located in NICHE, is primarily dedicated to nutrition intervention trials on human volunteers, who are recruited from the local community or specific patient groups.

To sustain and to develop further nutrition research at Ulster the University wishes to make an appointment to the post of Professor of Human Nutrition or Reader in Human Nutrition. The appointee will provide research leadership, establish internationally competitive agenda-setting research at Ulster and extend the University's focused research portfolio in human nutrition.

The level of the appointment will be based on the appointee's experience, personal esteem and achievements in the area of human nutrition research. Applicants must have an excellent record of research outputs suitable for inclusion in the REF2014 and appropriate to the research standards and priorities of NICHE.

The University also wishes to appoint to two posts at the level of Lecturer. The postholders will further strengthen activities in the area of human nutrition, including undergraduate and postgraduate taught provision using a range of classroom-based and online teaching techniques and modalities, coupled with engagement with external stakeholders in the area.

The appointees will be expected to develop/expand an independent externally-funded research programme and will have research outputs at 3*/4* level eligible for inclusion in REF 2014 and possibly, if appropriate, as an early career researcher.

An attractive reward package, including a competitive starting salary, access to a pension scheme and financial assistance with relocation expenses is available for an appointment at the level of Professor. The salary scale for Reader is £47,341 to £54,858 and the salary scale for Lecturer is £32,285 to £45,967.

All posts are available at an early date mutually convenient to the University and the successful applicants. The successful applicants, however, must be available to take up post prior to 31 October 2013.

The closing date for receipt of completed applications for the post at the level of Professor or Reader is 5 August 2013.

The closing date for receipt of completed applications for posts at the level of Lecturer is 25 July 2013.

Professor (or Associate Professor) of Civil Engineering
School of Engineering
Sunway campus, Malaysia

The University

Monash University seeks to improve the human condition by advancing knowledge and fostering creativity. It does so through research and education, and a commitment to social justice, human rights and a sustainable environment.

The opportunity

Monash seeks to appoint an outstanding academic in civil engineering to join the School of Engineering at its Sunway campus, Malaysia.

The school currently offers a four-year Bachelor of Engineering program in four branches: Chemical Engineering, Electrical and Computer Systems Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, and Mechatronics Engineering. They are undifferentiated programs and are fully accredited by respective Professional Engineering bodies e.g. Engineering Accreditation Council (EAC) and Engineers Australia (EA). In line with the school's expansion plan, and addressing the increasing demand for qualified civil engineers, the school will be offering the Bachelor of Engineering in the field of civil engineering from 2014. The successful candidate will be expected to establish, develop and grow the civil engineering discipline, providing strong leadership and strategic direction in teaching programs and research.

Criteria for appointment include: a research doctorate and an international reputation for outstanding research in civil engineering; a demonstrated track record in establishing and leading successful research teams and innovative research programs; a proven capacity to attract competitive research funding; a record of successful supervision of postgraduate research students; proven excellence in teaching and highly developed skills of leadership, networking and management.

Duration

The appointment will be for a fixed-term of five-years. Subject to performance and other criteria, a further term may be negotiable, or an appointment may be converted to a continuing position.

The benefits

Appointment will be made at the level of professor or associate professor depending on the qualifications and experience of the successful candidate. The appointment will be under Malaysian benefits, terms and conditions. A competitive remuneration package will be negotiable for an outstanding appointee. Professor (or Associate Professor) of Communication
and Media Studies
School of Arts and Social Sciences
Sunway campus, Malaysia

The University

Monash University seeks to improve the human condition by advancing knowledge and fostering creativity. It does so through research and education, and a commitment to social justice, human rights and a sustainable environment.

The opportunity

The School of Arts and Social Sciences, Monash University Sunway Campus (MUSC), is seeking an outstanding academic with a specialisation in communication and media studies.

The successful candidate is expected to lead the revamping of the curriculum for Bachelor of Communication as a priority. The candidate will also play a leadership role in coordinating the Masters of Communications and Media Studies. In addition, the successful candidate is expected to play a major role in the school's research and education strengths (please see www.sass.monash.edu.my for details).

Candidates should have: a research doctorate; demonstrated ability to provide leadership in curriculum innovation; a strong commitment to the advancement of learning and teaching in the communication and media studies discipline; an outstanding publication record and research profile of international standard; and a willingness and capability to engage in academic leadership and to mentor and supervise junior academic staff.

Professors and associate professors at our Sunway campus may be required to serve for a period as head of school or in another designated position of leadership.

Appointment will be made at the level of professor or associate professor depending on the qualifications and experience of the successful candidate.

Duration

The appointment will be for a fixed term of five years. Subject to performance and other criteria, a further term may be negotiable.

The benefits

The appointment will be under Malaysian benefits, terms and conditions. A competitive remuneration package will be negotiable for an outstanding appointee. Relocation travel and removal benefits are available.

Teaching Fellow/Senior Teaching Fellow in Educational Development

Salary: £32,930 - £40,720 p.a. (Level 3b)
Salary: £41,830 - £50,570 p.a. (Level 4)

South Kensington Campus

The Educational Development Unit (EDU) at Imperial College London is seeking to appoint a Teaching Fellow in Educational Development (or a Senior Teaching Fellow dependent on qualifications and experience) who will be based at the South Kensington campus.

This is an exciting opportunity to join a small team of experienced staff who work collaboratively across College to support and enhance learning, teaching and educational development in an institution with an excellent international reputation that consistently achieves high national and international rankings. The Unit recently revamped and extended its provision in order to become more flexible and responsive to institutional and sector changes. This is part of a dynamic and continuing process which offers opportunities for the new appointee.

The post holder will contribute to the delivery of the EDU's College provision, taking responsibility for a selection of standalone workshops and participating in the development and delivery of the Unit's academic programmes as appropriate. The post holder will also contribute to other general educational development work in the EDU and although the EDU is not an education research unit, its members are expected to engage in scholarly activity.

Our preferred method of application is online via our website <http://www3.imperial.ac.uk/employment> (please select "Job Search" then enter the job title or vacancy reference number SS 2013 125 TAA into "Keywords"). Please complete and upload an application form as directed.

School of Business, Management and Economics
SPRU – Science and Technology Policy Research

Professor of Energy Policy

Ref: 193

Salary Range: Professorial Salary is determined by negotiation
(The minimum full-time salary for a newly promoted Professor is £54,826 per annum)

Expected start date: As soon as possible

We are seeking to appoint a Professor of Energy Policy who will become the Director of the Sussex Energy Group (SEG) within SPRU.

SEG is one of the largest independent energy policy research groups in the UK and is a partner in the Tyndall Centre for Climate Change Research and the UK Energy Research Centre. SEG undertakes rigorous, inter-disciplinary research on energy and climate policy, focusing in particular upon energy technology innovation, low carbon development and the transition to low carbon energy systems. SEG currently has 15 researchers and 14 doctoral students and is funded from an array of public and private sector sources. SEG successfully combines academic and consultancy research with active engagement with policymakers and other stakeholders. From June 2013, SEG will be leading a new £3.7 million, 5-year Research Centre on Innovation and Energy Demand which will involve the recruitment of five more researchers and five PhD students.

The successful candidate will have:

- an outstanding inter-disciplinary publication record in energy and climate policy studies, preferably with an emphasis on technology and innovation issues
- an international reputation for high quality research in the area of energy and climate policy
- a track record of raising research income, including large research grants
- experience with engaging with policymakers and other stakeholders at a high level
- varied teaching experience, including successful doctoral and MSc supervision
- highly developed skills in communicating with diverse audiences
- enthusiasm, flexibility and a commitment to working within an interdisciplinary, policy-relevant field

The successful candidate will lead SEG and take overall responsibility for its research strategy, fund-raising, consultancy activities, stakeholder engagement, team management and staff development. S/he will supervise doctoral students and play an important role in developing energy-related teaching at both Masters and undergraduate levels. S/he will represent the Group in high level policy and stakeholder meetings, both nationally and internationally, and contribute to public debates about energy and climate policy through a range of media. S/he will build links with other researchers both within and outside the University of Sussex and develop the Group as a focus for University-wide energy research & related activities.

The University of Edinburgh is an exciting, vibrant, research led academic community offering opportunities to work with leading international academics whose visions are shaping tomorrow's world.

College of Humanities and Social Science

School of Social and Political Science

Chrystal Macmillan Fellowships in Social and Political Science

£30,424 - £36,298 per annum

The School of Social and Political Science's Chrystal Macmillan Fellowships provide career development opportunities for outstanding early career researchers.

Fellowships are available in the Subjects of:

- Politics and International Relations (Ref: 015428)
- Sociology (Ref: 015427)
- Social Policy, including Global Public Health (Ref: 015429)
- Social Work (Ref: 015431)
- Social Anthropology (Ref: 015433)
- Science, Technology and Innovation Studies (Ref: 015426)
- African Studies (Ref: 015435)

For each Fellowship we seek an exceptional candidate, with a completed PhD in the Subject (or very close to the completion of such a PhD) and with at least one article already published. Although the successful candidates may be asked to do a limited amount of teaching, the primary role of the Fellows will be to turn their existing research into further publications and to develop new research in their area of interest.

These fixed-term posts are available from September 2013 for a 12-month period.

TRINITY COLLEGE
CAMBRIDGE

JUNIOR RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS 2014

Trinity College intends to hold an election of Junior Research Fellows in 2014. The purpose of Junior Research Fellowships is to offer men and women of exceptional intellectual calibre, for whom the fellowship would be their first substantial paid academic or research appointment, an opportunity to pursue research for up to four years. The Fellowships are available in all branches of University studies.

A Junior Research Fellow receives a stipend from the College of £24,416 per annum (reviewable in line with academic stipends). Fellows are entitled to rooms in College (if available and subject to certain conditions) or a housing allowance of £6,000 per annum, and may take meals at High Table free of charge. A Fellow who is still registered for a degree course will receive a lower payment until this study is completed. There are also various additional benefits.

Further particulars may be obtained from the College website, <http://www.trin.cam.ac.uk/jrf> or from the Fellowship Secretary, Junior Research Fellowship Competition, Trinity College, Cambridge, CB2 1TQ, UK (e-mail: jrf@trin.cam.ac.uk). ## Prifysgol Cymru University of Wales

Moderators

In preparation for the proposed merger with the University of Wales: Trinity St. David, which will result in a transformed University of Wales, the University is exiting from the validation of collaborative programmes offered at partner institutions at home and overseas.

Assuring standards and enhancing the quality of the learning experiences of its students has always been, and continues to be, of critical importance to the University, especially so during this time of change which is likely to extend in some cases over a number of years. Moderators play a key part in the University's quality assurance and enhancement processes.

To this end, the University is pleased to invite expressions of interest from experienced academics (including recent retirees) for the role of Moderator in the following subject areas:

- |  |   |
|--|---|
| Banking and Finance                   | Engineering                                  |
| Business Studies                      | Art and Design                               |
| Management                            | Landscape Architecture                       |
| Accounting                            | Health Studies                               |
| Media and Digital Media               | Osteopathy                                   |
| Communications and Mass Communication | Chiropractic                                 |
| Journalism                            | Psychotherapy and Counselling                |
| Computing                             | Speech Therapy                               |
| Computing Information Technology      | Animal Manipulation (Osteopathic Techniques) |
| Game Development                      |   |

Applicants will be expected to demonstrate recent experience of quality assurance and enhancement activities and have recent teaching experience in the programme areas in which the University is seeking to make appointments. Experience of academic management would be a distinct advantage.

These are not full-time roles.

Further details for the role, including remuneration offered, will be despatched to interested parties upon receipt of an application letter and curriculum vitae.

Method of application

Applications should comprise the following:

- (i) Covering letter demonstrating suitability of the candidate for the role
- (ii) A full Curriculum Vitae in support of the application.
