Executive Dean, School of Education.

Edith Cowan University (ECU) is a young and progressive university with a strong reputation for excellence in teaching and engagement with its communities.

Formerly the Claremont Teachers' College, ECU has been at the forefront of teacher education for over 100 years. The University is home to the largest School of Education in WA and to the Edith Cowan Institute for Education Research.

The School of Education is seeking to appoint an inspiring, energetic, inclusive and highly effective leader as Executive Dean. The appointed individual will shape not only the ongoing development of the School, but also contribute to the wider strategic direction of ECU. They will be an accomplished scholar and educator in their own right, be familiar with the requirements set by accreditation and compliance bodies, and a champion of world-class research and innovation in education.

For further information and initial enquiries:

Please contact Arturo Uriostegui of Perrett Laver at Arturo.Uriostegui@perrettlaver.com or call our Sydney office on +61 2 8354 4027.

To apply please upload your curriculum vitae and supporting covering letter at perrettlaver.com/candidates, quoting reference number 3536 before Friday 18th May, 12:00pm AWST.

“Times Higher Education has helped to foster another important dimension of diversity at Harvard: international diversity. The exposure of Harvard's faculty positions on THEunijobs, since we embarked on our subscription package in October 2015, enhances our outreach efforts to a global community and showcases our institution as a destination of choice for academics around the world. Working with the THE team has also been a pleasure, and has enriched the conversation around international recruitment and retention.

An exciting opportunity to contribute to internationally recognised research and help shape the future of the creative industries.

Ulster is a university in the top 2% globally, where excellence in teaching is underpinned by world-leading research. Ranked as one of the world's top 150 young universities and in the top 25% of UK universities for overall research, Ulster is ambitious, forward-thinking and outward-looking.

The Creative Industries Institute at Ulster is a £20million investment that will drive collaboration and consultation with industry, government and civic partners to generate advanced research with impact that will innovate, influence policy development and produce industry-ready graduates with the skills and experience required to energise the economic, social and cultural regeneration of the region.

It is part of an exciting programme of investment in new infrastructure and initiatives driven by a five-year strategic vision to deliver a university that is sustainable and innovative with a strong international reputation.

Building on a history that begins with the Belfast School of Art in 1849, Ulster's Creative Industries Institute brings together a range of creative disciplines which consistently achieve the highest standards of excellence in teaching and research.

We are seeking to appoint talented and creative people with a genuine passion for their work, who will deliver outstanding research and teaching that encourages innovation, leadership and vision.

Location: Belfast, Coleraine or Magee: to be agreed with the successful applicant

Attractive reward package including a competitive starting salary, pension scheme and financial assistance with relocation.
